Feminist Debates on the Limits of Labour Law

“Care” has always been a feminist topic. And care as a perspective goes beyond care work. Care can be a perspective for all aspects of society; it reminds us to organise law, the state and the economy in a way that can nurture social relationships between all people.

This public debate sheds light on how the organisation of professional and paid care work is reflective of the role of “care” in society.

The event will be held in English. No registration is required.
